Old Business

Constitution

- Will be talked about next week

HOW'S THE BOARD?

New Business

New Members

- Congratulations to our new member Michael!

Special Events

- Last year we tried out a two-week showing of Blade Runner
 - This seemed to work, as we minimized our losses more than buying two movies for the same spots
- We have also tried out showing some older movies in the past, which haven't worked out too well.
- This year we would like to include some special events of showings of older movies
- Another option would be to show some foreign movies, to tie in with events like international movies weekend.

- It might be fun to show Die Hard for Christmas, since it is the movie's 30th birthday. This would be the last weekend before finals week, instead of a regular movie.
 - Ayush suggests Home Alone, Ian suggests Nightmare before Christmas.
- Morgan will look into associated costs.

35mm Projector

- Our 35mm projector may or may not work with our current sound system, and we only have a couple people trained with it.
- This might be a good year to get rid of it, possibly hold a special last showing sending-off event for it.
- We could do a big show like 2001: A Space Odyssey, or Lawrence of Arabia, to show 35mm at its peak, or show a more recent 35mm film like Inglorious Basterds, Interstellar, or Hateful Eight.
- We would probably sell the projector after its final use.
- The board votes to show an older classic movie over a newer one.
- Short list of movies is:
 - 2001: A Space Odyssey
 - Ben-Hur
 - Lawrence of Arabia
 - Spartacus
 - Jaws
 - Godfather
- All of the movies on our list will have their associated costs reviewed

Nanocon

- What it is: seven or eight different clubs gather together for a nerdy convention, lots of fun
- Film Board usually shows a movie that is either relevant, or one or two showings strictly for a movie of their choice.
- Motion to allow Nanocon to have two showings of a movie of their choice for the weekend of Nanocon, as well as having concessions.
 - The motion passes.

Committees

- Dan will be sending out a Google Form, please fill it out.
